Selectmen's Meeting

CABLE TV CONFERENCE

Robert Harrison and Glen Hawes, representatives of Bay Cable TV, conferred with Mattapoisett Selectmen and reported that phases 1, 2 and 3 of the town's cable plan is completed. This is the more densely populated areas of the town. They stated that they are eager to further expand but that lightly populated sections are more difficult because of the installation cost. They intend to institute a survey of these areas to determine the interest of residents in subscription.

Bay State has expended 3 1/2 million in the presently covered areas and needs 30 subscribers per mile to install cable without an additional installation charge to cover cost of feeder line. They are also asking subscribers in light population areas to advance subscription fees, up front, so as to assist in these feeder lines with few connections.

A survey of parts of town not served at present will begin very shortly. Selectmen requested a map or list for the town hall's information to assist in answering inquiries about Bay Cable service in Mattapoisett. The Bay Cable spokesmen asked that any difficult questions be referred directly to their office in Marion.

APPROVE AGREEMENT DETAILS

Selectmen conferred in executive session with Town Counsel Donald Fleming concerning the settlement agreement with the Old Rochester Regional School District (article 3 of the 1981 town meeting). Following the executive session, they passed a motion by Selectman James Huntoon to execute this agreement (to pay the sum of $22,862.00) in agreement form acceptable to Town Counsel.

APPROVE SGT. MOORE REQUEST

A written request was received by Sergeant Robert G. Moore of the Mattapoisett Police Department (text in Presto Press of May 20) for a reduction in rank from Sergeant to Patrolman. Selectman Huntoon moved that Sgt. Moore's request be accepted. The motion passed unanimously.

NED'S POINT LIGHT CONFUSION

Leon Weymouth of 19 Holly Lane wrote to inform Selectmen that he had experienced navigation problems due to the flood light at Ned's Point. He suggested the light be reaimed. It was the first such problem to

PUMPING STATION PROBLEMS CORRECTED

Selectmen received a letter from Charles Morgan, Superintendent of the Water Department, informing them that the last of the major construction problems at the Eel Pond Pumping Station appear to have been corrected and he feels that there is no reason to further delay the final closeout of the contract.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE OFFICERS

Selectmen received a notice that the following officers have been elected for the Mattapoisett School Committee: Dorothea Pierce, Chairman; Peter Coville, Secretary; and Susan Hottel, Representative to the Old Rochester Regional District School Committee.

SCALLOP SEEDING PROJECT

David A. Ross, Sea Grant coordinator of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, informed Executive Secretary Stephen Lombard by letter that the bay scallop seeding program of Judy Capuzzo, Rod Taylor and George Hamilton has been approved. This program received support from the Mattapoisett Selectmen in its initial stages.

APPROVED SCREENED PATIO

Roger Abreau, proprietor of The Sly Foxe, asked for permission to add a screened patio to the west side of the restaurant to the part known as Freddie Foxe. He said that food and beverage would be served with no entertainment in the screened area. Selectmen approved the request.

Graham, vice president of Reliable Bus Lines, Inc. of New Bedford, for a taxi license to run a proposed service between Faunce Corner Road through New Bedford via Kempton Street; through Fairhaven via Route 5 to Mattapoisett's North Street via Route 6; to Marion and terminating at Wareham's Industrial Park via Route 195 from North Street, Mattapoisett.

VACANCY

There is a vacancy on the Coastal Zone Management Committee. Interested persons are asked to submit a written application to the Selectmen's office at the Town Hall.

COUNTY OPPOSITION TO STATE TAKE-OVER

Selectmen received a report from Plymouth County Commissioners opposing a state take-over of county government. The report claims that the state wants to spread out county debts to the whole state forcing all of the state's taxpayers to foot the bill for the more heavily indebted counties such as Middlesex with a debt of 31 million compared to statewide county debt of 82 million. The report claims that new jails are needed in both Middlesex and Suffolk Counties and that the state wants to bail them out.

It points out that the cost of state inmates is $22,500 annually compared to $12,350 annual cost per inmate of county jails. The report quotes Senator William Q. MacLean as saying "Every time the state takes over something, it costs 5 times as much".

The report cites the 1978 state assumed county court costs of 86.1 million with 3500 employees. Three years later the budget request is 232.2 million with 6500

Excellence - an Assessment

Editorial, DCJ

At the Selectmen's meeting of Tuesday, May 19th, Robert G. Moore's letter of resignation of Sergeant was read and accepted. This action was a requested demotion in rank from Detective Sergeant to Patrolman and was passed unanimously without comment.

I wish to comment. I wish to comment as a private citizen without questioning anyone's motives or implying or intending any criticism. A man's work and record is worthy of recognition by the townspeople who have benefited.

When a senior officer of a public service organization is passed over for promotion, it is often due to some lack in qualification or flaw of character. In this instance quite the opposite reason was advanced. All Selectmen agreed that Robert Moore and James Santos were excellent police officers and both highly qualified professionals. The sole, publicly stated, argument against Sergeant Moore was that his law background and real estate interests could divide his career attention in the future. Both Chairman William Hubbard and John DeCosta stated that this led them to believe that the choice in the long range interest of the town was the individual focused solely on police objectives. Far from sinking under any cloud, Sgt. Moore has apparently been a victim of achievement in both educational and professional endeavor. That deserves recognition by all of us because in a large measure we are all victims. We, the public, through the police incentive program, helped furnish the encouragement for Robert Moore (and/or any of his peers) to achieve the very education which so decisively weighed against his advancement.

Patrolman Moore, in his letter of resignation from the rank of Sergeant, said that he is proud of his fourteen year record on the police department which includes 10 years as Detective Sergeant. All of Mattapoisett can take pride in such a record and in the caliber of Robert Moore himself in all of his conduct with the public in the public safety field. Mattapoisett, very possibly, now has the most over qualified patrolman in the United States. Whether or not this will prove an inspiration to our police education program only time will tell. It should make no difference. Knowledge, whether utilized by Mattapoisett or not, belongs to the individual, to use, to share, to enjoy for the enrichment of a whole lifetime. Patrolman Robert G. Moore is a man of singular achievement.

I salute him.

Council on Aging

MATTAPOISETT

Included in this issue of Presto Press is our schedule of Minibus trips for the month of June. We would like to see Seniors take one of these trips -- Seniors who have not recently gone on trips. Please call the Council on Aging at the Town Hall (Telephone 758-3758) or drop in, to make your reservation. Our hours are 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon Monday through Friday. Please cut out our ad and retain for reference.

Here are a few notes on our trips. Many of you have already been to the Heritage Plantation in Sandwich with its 76 acres of gardens and three museums. This year, it is featuring a special exhibition, "Across the Wide Missouri: The American West In Art", with more than 100 paintings, lithographs, drawings and sculptures. Another special exhibit this summer at the Americana Museum is "Firemen and Folk Art", combining both the spectacular and utilitarian artifacts associated with firefighting in the last 200 years.

We have arranged a special New Bedford Harbor Tour, as ordinarily only weekend trips are made in June. Because of this special arrangement we feel that we should fill our Minibus, and invite Seniors from other towns to come along on this tour.

The Garden in the Woods is maintained by the New England Wild Flower Society, Inc. of Framingham who conduct special tours. This is their 50th anniversary year, and

Communications Party

TOMA SEQUEL

Old Rochester parents have organized their second sequel to the high-charisma, anti-drug presentation of David Toma: "COMMUNICATION PARTY". Following two high-powered, intense presentations including Toma and a diverse panel of effective speakers from the rehabilitation field, the parents wanted a "lighter, more fun" educational experience, ideally reaching out to both students and parents regarding "communication".

And a lighter more fun presentation has been planned. "Communication Party" will feature a Family Feud hosted by Robert Gardner (Junior High Principal), using questions designed to stimulate parent/child understanding, yet still providing fun, laughter, and sensitivity to the problems at hand. Sample questions include: "What do teenagers want most from their

Two short skits satirizing parent-teenager communication will be contrasted with scenes depicting better communication.

Included in the program will be some group discussions which will probe communication barriers and suggest some steps in the right direction.

The party will also present over twenty door prizes and provide refreshments through the evening.

"Communication Party" will take place Wednesday, May 27th, at 7:00 p.m. at the Old Rochester Regional High School cafeteria. All interested people are welcome.

Tri-County Scholarships

Susan Sylvester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Torrey Sylvester of Acushnet Road, Mattapoisett, is one of four recipients of scholarships from the Tri-County Music Association for 1981. Miss Sylvester is a junior at the University of Lowell, majoring in music performance.

The other recipients are Holly Hassett and Matthew Richard of Fairhaven and Joseph F. Carrier of New Bedford. Miss Hassett is a senior music major at Emmanuel College, Richard is a freshman music major at Westfield State College, and Carrier is a sophomore music major at Berklee College of Music.

This year's scholarship fund-raising event will be the "Great Gatsby Ball" for which ticket sales formally will be launched Saturday, June 6, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Ball coordinator Charles Ganzel, Jr. of Marion said the tickets (limited due to the size of the former "Shining Tides" mansion in Mattapoisett) will be sold on June 6 from the running boards and rumble seats of 1920s vintage automobiles in the town wharf areas of Mattapoisett, Marion and South Dartmouth.

Tickets also are available from Mrs. Charles Smith in Mattapoisett, Mrs. Edward Cooney in Marion, Mrs. Faustino Lopes, Jr. in Wareham and Mrs. Paul Oliveira in New Bedford.

Marion Art Center

OPENS BUILDING FUND DRIVE

The Marion Art Center opened its Building Fund Drive with a kickoff cocktail party last Saturday evening. Mrs. William Adamson, the Fund Drive Director, spoke of the need for renovation of the 150 year old structure. Guests toured the building and were shown some of the problem areas that need attention.

The structure, built originally by two local sea captains in 1832, as the Marion Universalist Church, remains one of Marion's more graceful historic buildings. When the Marion Art Center was founded twenty-five years ago, the church was adapted for use as a theater and the adjoining addition became the Cecil Clark Davis Gallery. During the 1960's, the basement was converted for use as a studio-workshop. In the late 1970's, the second floor apartment over the addition was rebuilt to provide more graceful and class space, and last year was named the Patsy Francis Gallery. As the Art Center has grown in response to community needs with larger and more varied projects and programs, so too has its need for more and better organized space and facilities -- especially as the Marion Art Center is the only one of its kind between Fall River and Plymouth.

Over the years the Marion Art Center has sponsored many programs in the arts and in theater. Now it presents annually approximately seventeen art and crafts shows, featuring many local artists, six to seven theater productions of various types, many studio classes in painting, sculpture, pottery, ballet, children's theater, poetry and calligraphy among others. In addition, there is a rental collection and many special events such as the summer Sidewalk Show. The center is also very proud that they have been able to offer, every Spring, art and drama scholarships to graduating seniors of schools in the area.

For the Marion Art Center to be able to continue these programs and to expand them, it must have an updated and adequate building. In this time of rising costs this means help - lots of it - from communities throughout the area that it serves. The Drive opened on May ninth and will continue through 1981.

FAIRHAVEN UNITARIAN CHURCH

The ninth Creative Arts Festival is to be held at the Unitarian Memorial Church of Fairhaven on June 6-7. This is the annual and final event of the current season to celebrate the arts in religion for the enrichment and uplift of the Greater Community; and to commemorate the establishing of Memorial Church by the late Henry H. Rogers, New York philanthropist, who gave to Fairhaven, his boyhood home, a cathedral of superb beauty in its architecture, sculpture and stained glass windows.

The exhibit of the Festival this year will be a showing of beautiful photography by the members and friends of the Church. Mr. and Mrs. Milton K. Delano are the co-chairmen with Deborah L. Hynes, Norman H. Hayes and Raymond McK. Mitchell assisting. The exhibit will be held in the Parish House, and the hours are: 1:00 - 5:00 p.m. Saturday, June 6; and 11:00 am. - 9:00 p.m. Sunday, June 7. The public is invited.

SUMMER CAMP -HANDICAPPED YOUNGSTERS

Handicapped youngsters from across Massachusetts will be given an opportunity to attend summer camp this year through a program offered by the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society.

Applications are now being accepted by the Society to fill some 160 openings at Camp Agassiz Village in Maine. Four, two-week sessions will be scheduled for boys and girls between the ages of six and seventeen years who are physically disabled.

A trained counseling staff and a specially adapted unit at Agassiz Village are designed to provide the campers with individualized attention amid surroundings which are totally accessible for even the wheelchairbound youngster.

Easter Seal camping integrates both able-bodied and handicapped youngsters in activities which include swimming, archery, boating, arts and crafts and overnight programs.

"For many kids, it's their first experience being away from home," according to Kirk Joslin, Easter Seal camping director.

"Camping is a way to help the kids develop a better sense of independence and self-esteem", he added.

Suicide Prevention

WORK OF SAMARITANS

Suicide has been the fastest growing cause of death in Massachusetts over the past decade, according to recent statistics from the state Department of Public Health.

Four people in Mattapoisett took their own lives between 1969 and 1978. The Samaritans, a statewide suicide prevention organization, estimate that an additional 10 people attempt suicide and 100 people feel suicidal without taking action for each attempt which results in death. There was a total of 508 reported suicides in Massachusetts during 1979.

Kermit Morrissey, the state's Undersecretary of Human Services, notes that although Massachusetts continues to have a low suicide rate compared to other states, the seven percent increase in suicides between 1969 and 1979 is alarming. "The Departments of Public Health and Mental Health are extremely concerned about these trends, and especially about the startling increase in suicides among young people. The number of suicides among Massachusetts residents under the age of 30 has more than doubled in the past decade," he said.

Morrissey added, "The fact is that many of these deaths are preventable. If people simply understood what suicide is all about and knew where to turn for help, many lives could be saved."

Samaritan's Executive Director, Shirley Karnovsky, says that a number of myths and misconceptions stand in the way of suicide prevention. "For example, after almost every suicide you hear people say that the person wasn't the type. There simply is no type -- all kinds of people from all kinds of backgrounds commit suicide."

Another myth Karnovsky cites is that people who talk about suicide are not the ones who will do it and that suicide often happens without warning. "In fact, a suicidal person gives many clues and warnings about his or her intentions," Karnovsky said. "Almost no one commits suicide without letting others know how he is feeling. Such indications should be taken seriously."

A final misconception is that the risk is over once the person shows improvement after a suicidal crisis. "Most suicides occur within three months of the beginning signs of improvement after a severe depression," Karnovsky continued. "This is when the person has the energy to put his feelings into effect."

The Samaritans list the five common warning signs of suicide as prolonged or severe depression, suicidal threats or statements of a desire to die, sudden changes in behavior or personality, a preoccupation with making final arrangements such as preparing wills or giving away important personal possessions, and one or more previous suicide attempts.

What should you do when you notice these danger signals? Experts in suicidology suggest that it is important to talk openly with the person about his suicidal feelings and to seek additional help and support.

Sharing the suicidal person's pain and assuring them of your concern can be crucial. Ask what is bothering the person and ask if he or she has thought about committing suicide. The realization that someone is willing to discuss it is often a source of profound relief for the person who is considering suicide.

Once the possibility of suicide has been uncovered, the person should be encouraged to get professional help. If he refuses to do so, you can help by calling a suicide prevention center or other qualified agency or person to explain the situation and ask for advice. A good friend can be a lifesaver, but qualified and experienced help is often needed.

The International Association for Suicide Prevention points to the recent success of Great Britain in reducing the number of suicides by more than one-third during a period of skyrocketing suicide rates in other industrial countries. The factor most often cited for this success is the nationwide network of Samaritan organizations which offers a free, confidential, non-religious, 24-hour service to assist people who are suicidal, lonely, or in de-

Instead of employing professionals, the Samaritan branches are run by carefully selected and trained volunteers, an attribute that some experts suggest takes away the clinical feeling that many people associate with suicide prevention centers in other nations. In dealing with clients, the volunteers do not offer counseling, which is available by referral for those who need and request it. What is offered by telephone and in person at the Samaritan centers is the listening, accepting, understanding, and caring of a volunteer who is personally involved.

This sort of help has been available in Massachusetts since 1974 when the Samaritan's first American branch was founded in Boston by Monica Dickens, a great-granddaughter of novelist Charles Dickens. The Boston center receives an average of 250 calls per day, seven days a week. Calls have come from 208 cities and towns in Massachusetts and from 21 other states. Nearly half of the 4,462 new callers in 1980 were considering suicide at the time they first called and one out of six continues contact with the Samaritans beyond the first call.

Samaritan branches are now operational in Lawrence, Cape Cod, and Providence, Rhode Island, and additional branches are being planned in Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Keene, New Hampshire. A total of 14 telephone lines are now being answered 24 hours a day in Massachusetts for citizens from throughout the state who are seeking help.

Are they visitors from other planets or stars, or did misfortune cause them to wear a disguise and revenge themselves on the world of crime? Learn all the answers from a super-hero expert. BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS - MAY 30th

Becoming familiar with the colors, plumage, and songs of local birds will be the subject of the field walk on May 30th at the Children's Museum. Birds are very vocal in the Spring as they build nests for their young. If you sit quietly in a field you can hear many songs from the treetops or from the forest floor. Can you recognize them? Field glasses may help in spotting the bird for a closer look. Everyone's backyard, at this time of year, is filled with birds looking for worms, insects, seeds, or nesting materials. Find out who your visitors are. The walk, this Saturday, May 30th, starts at 10:00 a.m. and is open to all ages.
